“ I have been attending a workshop at Columbia University this week and today, I mentioned Cedric's name. The person I was talking to just stared at me - first in awe that he had served on my dissertation committee when I'm a sociologist, and secondly, because I had not known about his passing. However one were to describe Cedric Robinson and the knowledge he had of Black Marxism and political movements, it would only begin to touch the surface. My thoughts are with you Elizabeth and the rest of the family.
