“Wow Brother, I am truly sorry I lost touch with you. I am very sad to hear your gone. I just today thought of you and I was hoping you were still around. You were always a true friend to me and always watched my back. As I did yours my Friend. I wish I could have help you Brother but back in my S.B. days I had many issues myself and it would have been pointless. I will truly miss you my friend. Hopefully we will see each other again in the after life. Your Friend Billy Logan

“ Eric was the Love of my Life. we more or less lived together from 1990 to 2004, when circumstances beyond our control separated us. Due to a death in my family, I could not stay in Santa Barbara, and he could not go. He drove my little, blue Datsun 510 wagon for several years after I moved to the Eastern Sierra Mountains until I could come get it. He accepted me with all my quirks and oddities and Loved me unconditionally. We Loved and accepted each others differences completely, As he was dying he was leaving me a message on my answering machine. After 20 years I finally heard the words I had waited for; "Baby , I don't want to drink and do drugs anymore. If I don't get out of here it's going to kill me. He was making all the arrangements to come to me in my mountains. I will never find a Love like the one we shared. The world is an emptier place without Eric in it. We will all be lesser without him. Eric made the world a brighter place for all who knew and Loved him. Kiwanan my Love, You have all my Love and I'll see you on the other side.

“ Those who knew Eric are truly fortunate. Those who did not, really missed out on a very special and profound part of this world. I was lucky enough to have not only known Eric, but to also have had a real friendship with him. In this world, if a person has but only a few true friends, they can consider themselves quite blessed. Eric was one of, but just a few people I called my friend. Always there when I needed an ear to listen, advice to help me in a time of need, and anything else a true, gold-hearted person/friend would do for anothe.

Eric was that way with anyone. These things are just a small example of all that was part of Eric and I will miss him for the rest of my days.

To Mr. Harms; Sir, you are the ipitimy of fathers. The boys you and your late wife brought into this world could not be of better character and person and its due to your teaching and guidance that they became the people they were and are. Especially with all the heartache and hurt that all of you have endured over the years.

Thank you for giving me such a great friend!

I will however, always regret that I was not able to get home in time before Eric left us and that our last conversation was over the phone ending with my question of what he would like for his birthday.

Eric, I might not be able to see your face, but you will always remain in my thoughts and in my heart.

I love ya dude!
