“ Oooooh Lito! You will be missed my friend! What a hard worker you were! Your values, morals and JOY in life will be remembered by me. You showed me that surroundings are not what matters - JOY in spite of circumstances is possible. Our talks are precious to me though they were few, they are precious.

To Litos family, I pray for the comfort of the Holy Spirit during this time, to fill the hole you feel, the void in your hearts. I know Jesus will walk with you if you just ask Him to.

May God fill your hearts with sweet memories of the joyous times you had with him and bring those memories back for you to laugh about and turn your tears of sorrow into sweet tears of loving memory. Tears are not weakness, but an expression of love, do not be afraid of that expression! It is a testimony of your love for Lito and the many ways in which he touched your life. Remember grief has no time schedule, be gentle with each other allowing one another to grieve in their own way - respecting their own process even though it may differ from yours. I will be praying for all of you, in the name of Jesus, that He will bring peace to your hearts and hold you when it hurts the most.

I was one of Litos supervisors at the post office when he first started. He was a joy to work with! So nervous and conscientious. LOL He was funny and I remember having to calm him down and get him to concentrate and focus because he would try to do everything at once and not get anything done!!! He was a sweet man, and a hard worker. I remember how his face would light up when we just said hello at the beginning of the shift, or I told him he had done a good job. Although I have not seen him in many years, I have often thought about him, asked about him, and prayed for him. John Cuske, Lyle Burris, Jeannine Westervelt-Stevenson, Phil Stevenson and myself were talking about him just two weeks ago! He was a joy to work with as an employee as well as a co-worker. When I left supervision and went back to being a clerk, Lito and I worked together for a short time.

May God be with you.

"So we do not lose heart. Though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed day by day. For this slight momentary affliction is preparing for us an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison, as we look not to the things that are seen but to the things that are unseen. For the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal."

- 2 Corinthians 4:16-18
