

Joseph F. Pasinato Sr.

October 4, 1918 - December 30, 2011

Pasinato Sr., Joseph F.

10/04/1918 - 12/30/2011

Joe Pasinato Sr., a Santa Barbara native died at Cottage Hospital on December 30th 2011. Mr. Pasinato was born at Saint Francis hospital in Santa Barbara on October 4, 1918 to Angelo and Andreana Pasinato, who immigrated to America from Italy.

Mr. Pasinato attended Franklin Elementary School and Santa Barbara Junior and Senior High School. He then continued his education at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. During WWII, he was employed at the naval shipyard in Long Beach California, where he and other workers, built "Liberty" ships for the war effort. While working at the shipyard, he met and married Beatrice Sotter from Ukiah, who was then working for Western Union in Long Beach. At the end of the war, they moved to Santa Barbara and together raised one child, who they named Joseph Jr.

In his younger days, he was a part owner of an automotive garage located on Milpas Street on the east side of Santa Barbara. After the birth of Joe Jr., he worked at various jobs in Santa Barbara, including the Petan Dairy and Southern Pacific railroad ice plant. From those jobs, he went on to be hired by the City of Santa Barbara as a welder and retired as a foreman of men and equipment.

He was an outspoken man and loved to discuss politics and offer his opinion on many different subjects. Joe, was a family man who believed in hard work and traditional values.

He is survived by his only child, Joe Pasinato Jr.
