“ It's 2017 and I don't know if family is monitoring this site any longer.

I first knew the Nelson family in Salisbury, Maryland, when I was a child. My parents had rented an apartment from the senior Nelson in Hamburg, NY. Business interests had taken both families to Salisbury. Link was one of the older young people we kids looked up to. I loved to hear him play the piano. I remembered the shower our church had for Lenore before they left for the field. They were the first missionary couple I knew and prayed for regularly.

I last saw them in 1998 when they stopped by to visit my mother in Salisbury. Link played the piano for us that day.

Today I'm cleaning out files. It is going very slowly because I had to stop and read the last prayer letters I had from them in their early retirement years. Such nostalgia. It prompted me to come to the computer to see if I could find out if they were still alive. I see that he is at home with the Lord. I'm wondering about Lenore. It was also interesting to see that Jim was still alive at the time of Link's death.

I hope some family member find this.
